Pharmacist-Led Collaborative for Antimicrobial Stewardship – Part 2
ACPE # 0004-9999-15-112-L04-P  5.50 Contact Hours
This continuing education activity will be knowledge based.

At the end of this activity participants will be able to:
- Convey the necessary steps to your administrators for establishing and maintaining an antibiotic stewardship program (ASP) at your hospital.
- Recognize the value and improved patient outcomes associated with a well-established ASP.
- Develop a plan or ideas for improving or maturing the ASP at your hospital
- Demonstrate the value of a procalcitonin-guided ASP
- Summarize national efforts to promote antimicrobial stewardship and monitor antibiotic resistance; and how the Arkansas Department of Health is planning to participate and incorporate national efforts into state level efforts.
- Describe the Arkansas Department of Health’s priorities as it relates to antibiotic stewardship and current/upcoming activities to address these issues.
- Relate how hospital antibiotic stewardship initiatives fit into statewide antibiotic stewardship initiatives.
- Identify strengths and weaknesses of the clinical pharmacy program at BHMC - NLR as related to antimicrobial stewardship.
- Recognize critical components of antimicrobial stewardship programs, anticipated outcomes, and consider those which can most positively impact patient care
- Compare and contrast common biomarkers, clinical presentation, and other laboratory tests used in the evaluation of patients with bacterial infections
- Analyze case studies to recognize how procalcitonin, other biomarkers, clinical exam, and clinical processes can assist in early recognition, risk stratification, and the antimicrobial management of patients
