2020 Emergency Preparedness Forum Agenda

Day One - June 3

8:15 a.m.  Registration and Refreshments

8:45 a.m.  Welcome
Lyndsey Dumas, Vice President of Education, Arkansas Hospital Association

9:00 a.m.  U.S. Dependence on China for Medicines: Implications for National Health Security and Emergency Preparedness
Rosemary Gibson, Senior Advisor to The Hastings Company; Perspectives Editor for JAMA Internal Medicine; Author of China Rx

The session will present data on U.S. dependence on China for medicines, the threats to the nation's health security and action steps to mitigate the risks. Lessons from the coronavirus will be spotlighted because of its significance with regard to the U.S. supply of medicines.

10:30 a.m.  Break

10:45 a.m.  Reducing Health Care Violence through an Environment of Care Community Policing Based Security Strategy
Brian Uridge, Michigan Medicine Security Director, University of Michigan

Violence reduction programs should be focused on developing a system-wide approach that recognizes every health care system is a community, with every floor being a unique neighborhood, each with different dynamics. Building trust, transparency and training along with implementing a system-wide strategy focused on reducing risk and anxiety through exceptional experience based nontraditional contacts, staff training, professionalism and critical incident response, forms the basis from which a strong security program is built.

This session will focus on:
- Identification of actual workplace violence warning signs focusing on pre-incident indicators
- How to create workplace violence scenario-based training designed for the health care environment. De-escalation and Conflict Resolution training techniques. Employee Awareness training development.
- Development and implementation of CPTED (Crime Prevention through Environmental Design) techniques, panic alarms, ID keys, passcodes and cameras.

12:00 noon  Lunch (provided) and Networking

1:00 p.m.  Infectious Disease Waste Management
Joe Knight, REM, Environmental Management Coordinator, Arkansas Children’s Hospital

What is considered an infectious disease? What is the survivability of infection diseases in waste? What is considered successful decontamination and how is performed for Category A Medical Waste generated from the care of patients with serious communicable diseases? Get answers to these questions and more during this session.

Faculty Spotlight...

Dr. Jennifer Dillaha

Since joining the Arkansas Department of Health (ADH) in 2001, Jennifer Dillaha, M.D., has played a leading role in the Agency’s health promotion efforts, using a life stage approach that focuses on population-based interventions to improve the health and well-being of all Arkansans.

Dr. Dillaha has played a number of roles at ADH over the years. She is currently the medical director for Immunizations and Outbreak Response at the ADH. She is uniquely prepared for this role as a physician with specialty training in internal medicine and subspecialty training in infectious diseases and in geriatric medicine, which she received at UAMS.

Prior to her current roles, Dr. Dillaha served as the special advisor for Strategic Initiatives in the Office of the Director from June 2010 to April 2013 and director of the Center for Health Advancement from August 2005 to June 2010 at the ADH.

Rosemary Gibson

Rosemary Gibson is an award-winning author of China Rx: Exposing the Risks of America’s Dependence on China for Medicine which reveals the dramatic shift in where medicines are made and growing concerns about their quality. It highlights the centralization of the global supply of medicines in a single country and implications in the event of a global pandemic, natural disaster or geopolitical event.

Ms. Gibson testified before the House Energy and Commerce Health Subcommittee in October 2019 and to the U.S.-China Economic and Security Review Commission in July of this year. She has briefed leadership in executive departments, Congress and industry leaders on the national security threats from US dependence on China for medicines and proposes solutions to mitigate the risk.

Ms. Gibson is senior advisor at the Hastings Center and is recipient of the American Medical Writers Association Award for her outstanding contributions to the public’s interest in reporting on critical health care issues. She serves on the MedStar Institute for Quality and Patient Safety Advisory Board in Washington, D.C.; was a board member of the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education; and served on the ACGME CLER Evaluation Committee to advance patient safety in teaching hospitals and other clinical learning environments. For nearly a decade, she was an editor at JAMA Internal Medicine. She is board chair of the Altarum Institute, a non-profit health systems research group in Ann Arbor.

Brian Uridge, MPA, CPP, CHPA, CTM

Brian is currently the Michigan Medicine security director at the University of Michigan Health System. He manages over 200 security personnel throughout the health system which has over 28,000 employees and over 1,000 licensed Beds. He was also the director of security services for Spectrum Health Delivery System in Grand Rapids, Michigan, for the past three years. At Spectrum, Uridge led more than 120 safety, security and security police officers, providing security for approximately 27,000 employees system-wide at over 120 locations.

While at Spectrum, Uridge and his team implemented the first-ever Community Policing/Security program, Security/Pet-Therapy K-9 program, firearms, and taser programs. In addition, over the past 15 years, Brian has developed and presented multiple workplace safety training seminars including: Community Based Clinical Healthcare Security programs, Situational Awareness, clinical and in-home health care tactical response modules.

Brian was a member of the Kalamazoo Department of Public Safety in Kalamazoo, Michigan for more than 23 years. Kalamazoo Public Safety is the largest fully integrated Police, Fire, and EMS agencies in the United States, with more than 200 sworn personnel. During his career, Brian worked in every division within the agency and held every rank as a command officer. He also served as a member of the Special Weapons and Tactics Team (SWAT) for 18 years, serving six years as the SWAT Commander. Brian served as the assistant chief for the final four years of his career, retiring in August 2013. He is the recipient of numerous awards including the Kalamazoo Public Safety Medal of Valor in 1997 and Kalamazoo Public Safety Lifesaving award in 2013.

Brian holds a Bachelor’s degree in Criminal Justice and a Master’s degree in Public Administration. He is a graduate of the FBI National Academy, along with being a Board Certified Protection Professional (CPP), Board Certified Healthcare Protection Administrator, (CHPA) and Board Certified Threat Manager (CTM).
